Biography:

Chris Glover is an Inventory and Product Manager at Race Pace Bicycles in Ellicott City, MD. He is a graduate of the Maryland Institute College of Art with a BFA in Environmental Design. He has worked at Race Pace Bicycles since 2003 in a variety of positions, and currently is involved in information and process management for in-store and online operations. His strength is in critical thinking, the ability to look at a problem from all sides and find a fair and equal solution. His background in art and design provides a better understanding of the importance of process, and the ability to critique and refine from an objective point of view. His time as a technician and manager at Race Pace Bicycles reinforces those same skills, and adds a depth of experience working with a wide spectrum of people and problems. He excels at identifying core issues and questions, thinking with an open mind, and effectively communicating with others to figure out solutions. He enjoys riding his bicycle, the outdoors, and spending time with his family. Chris Glover lives in Catonsville, MD, and is married with a son.
