

Flavia Delmastro

Dr. Flavia Delmastro was born and raised in Turin, Italy. She graduated from the University of Veterinary Medicine in Turin in 1981. She came to the USA in 1982 and worked for Dr. Fred Everhart in Baltimore before opening her own practice, the Fulton Animal Hospital, in 1987. Dr. Delmastro has dedicated her career to the love of animals in her professional and private life. She is known for her compassion to her pet patients and their owners. She is a member of the AVMA, GBMVA and a charter member and past president of the Sunrise Rotary Club of Ellicott City. When not at the hospital, Dr. Delmastro enjoys cooking, music, spending time with her husband, dogs, cats and watching her backyard birds. The love and care of the practice is shared by her husband, Chris Koehler, who handles the administrative and technology aspects of the hospital.

Fulton Animal Hospital is a small animal practice comprised of compassionate veterinarians and staff who are dedicated to the health and wellbeing of every patient and their owners. Established in 1987 by Dr. Flavia Delmastro and recently expanded and upgraded. We offer state-of-the-art diagnostics, a full range of veterinary services, and comfortable boarding facilities.

Our doctors and staff are committed to providing excellent care for your pet. We know the importance of your pet as a member of your family, and we strive to add a personal aspect to our work. Although our primary concern is the health of your pet, we also strive to provide our clients with complete satisfaction.
